Chisholm Family Farm

Chisholm Family Farm, located by Unadilla, NE, is owned by Andrew and Laura Chisholm.

We are a small, family operated pasture-based soy-free farm in Unadilla, NE. We milk jersey cows and raise pastured pigs, pastured poultry, grass-fed beef and grass-fed lamb. Laura makes cheese with our milk and we have developed our own line of all natural sausages as well as pet foods and treats.

We are in the middle of a move to our new farm in Unadilla. We are building a micro-creamery on site as well as a country store. Laura will be able to make several micro sized batches of different cheeses and yogurts each week. Our country store will feature not only our own farm products but will feature natural foods from all over Nebraska as well as local arts and antiques. For more information on our new creamery and store visit www.orchardhillcreamery.com We will open at our new location in late December/early January.

Our products are currently available for purchase on our farm, as well as in Tomato Tomato in Omaha and Open Harvest in Lincoln. Our pet foods can be found in Long Dog Fat Cat and Pet's Earth pet stores in Omaha and at Open Harvest in Lincoln.

They think local food/products are important because:
Purchasing local foods and products keeps Nebraska's money in Nebraska. By supporting our local farmers and businesses we are helping to boost our local economy. Getting to know your farmer helps to develop a deep connection with where your food comes from as well as you can be reassured of the quality of what your family eats when you buy local.

Chisholm Family Farm has been a member of Buy Fresh Buy Local Nebraska for 4 years. They chose to become a member:
To help support the local foods movement. It has increased awareness that we are here!
